

Stephanie Series

The Stephanie is Nightingale's most versatile lounge seating option, allowing for so many different configurations that we couldn't fit them all on this page. Stephanie is a modular alternative to the standard bench or sofa that provides visual interest through its geometric design and possible dual-tone upholstery. Outfitting a space with Stephanie allows for a dramatic transformation of the space through a quick rearrangement.

The individual seats are lightweight (30-45 lbs) compared to standard sofas, making Stephanie easy for a single person to move. Stephanie pieces secure together through use of an optional ganging bracket, allowing for units to stand alone or join with others to create a more prominent piece of furniture.

The Stephanie series is made up of three pieces, the 1401 is a lounge seat with backrest, 1410 is the standard lounge seat, and 1412 is the lounge corner unit.

The sofa configuration replaces the need for a standard sofa while maintaining visual continuity throughout the space.

A sectional configuration can be used in a corner or to divide spaces, and can comfortably accommodate up to five users.

Three standard lounge seats create a bench that can be used against a wall, or to create a divider in a wide corridor/hallway that won't obstruct views.

The "Zig Zag" configuration works well in transitory spaces for a user waiting for a meeting or having a quick conversation.

Stephanie in a long sofa configuration works well in pairs to create a casual meeting setting.

This corner configuration works well to fill the corner of a room while maintaining a small profile.

This bench with backrest configuration works well in waiting areas, and can be paired with more units with backs facing the wall to increase seating in a small footprint.